Your Guide to the Virtual Tally Room

ELECTORAL COMMISSION QUEENSLAND

2009 State General Election
Brisbane Convention Centre

ECQ recognises CITEC as its Technology Partner successfully providing complete ICT logistical and operational management services.

Welcome to the Virtual Tally Room for the 2009 State General Election Web Site. The Virtual Tally Room is designed to provide you with comprehensive and up-to-date information on progressive election results.

The virtual tally room is our online version of the Tally Room at Brisbane Convention Centre. Similar to the Tally Room, our virtual version reports on election results at the state level, per district and even by polling booth. Results are reported directly from the Electoral Commission of Queensland's (ECQ) head office at Mary Street in Brisbane.

To assist your understanding of the information available on the Virtual Tally Room site, this guide illustrates the navigation of the site and provides explanations of terms and references used. We have also included sample web page screens with descriptions and explanations to assist with your use of the Virtual Tally Room. Note that the results displayed in the sample screens are examples only, based on test data from the 2004 State General Election.

System Hierarchy

The entry point for the virtual tally room is the Electoral Commission Queensland's home page – www.ecq.qld.gov.au.
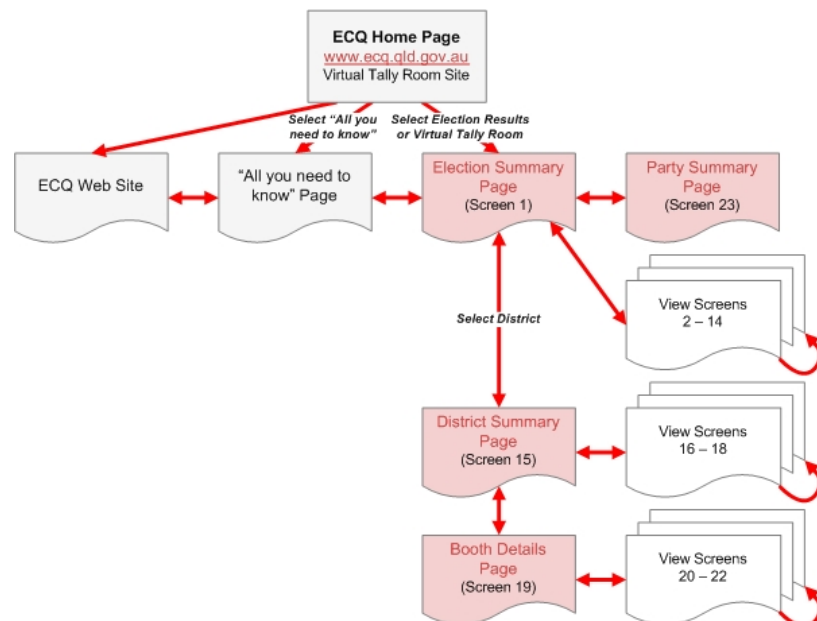

Depending on the date you access the entry point, the default page displayed may be different:

1. Prior to Election Day. www.ecq.qld.gov.au will take you to the ECQ's home page. From here, you can select the 'All you need to know' link which contains a link to the Election Summary Page (refer to Screen 1 on page 4 of this guide). Or click the 'Virtual Tally Room' link which directly links you to the Election Summary Page.

2. On Election Day (after midday). www.ecq.qld.gov.au will take you directly to the Election Summary Page.

The Election Summary Page is the main navigation point of the virtual tally room which you can use to view election results at the State level, or select a district to view results at the district level (District Summary Page) or even by polling booth (Booth Details Page).

The following diagram illustrates the navigation of the Virtual Tally Room.

Election 2004 - All you need to know

Counting the Votes

The aim for this site is to bring you up-to-date results from 6pm on Saturday 7 February for all 89 Electoral Districts. The posting of results will commence with the receipt of the first figures from polling booths soon after 6pm through to the counting of the last of the postal votes. Postal votes can be counted provided they are completed no later than 6pm on polling day and are received by the Returning Officer by 6pm on Tuesday 17 February.

In polling booths, first preference votes are counted and posted following entry to the Commission's results system. In Districts with three or more candidates (86 for Election 2004), preferences will be counted for the lowest ranking candidates and allocated to the two candidates selected by the Commission. This "notional two candidate" count is for information only and is designed to give an indication of the leading candidate after preferences. Should the Commission have selected an incorrect candidate for this exercise, the notional count will be discontinued. Screen 6 has the details of this count. In all cases, a full distribution of preferences will be conducted for all such Districts prior to the return of the Writ.

There will be no counting of further votes on Sunday 8 February. On Sunday, Returning Officers will sort and despatch all the absent votes taken in their polling booths so that counting in the home District can commence as soon as possible.

On Monday 9 February, all Districts will commence a check count of the votes taken in polling booths. This is planned to take two days and any corrections will be reflected in the District totals. At the same time, the scrutiny of all declaration votes will be commenced. These include postal, pre-poll, unenrolled and absent votes. Votes taken in Declared Institutions as well as electoral visit votes will also be counted progressively.

Screen 6 - Notional Two Candidate Result
(Sample Only)

Districts that are being contested by only two candidates will display "Only two candidates for this district" and notional counting for this district will not be performed.

In the event that a candidate or both candidates selected are incorrect, the names of both candidates will be removed and a message reading "Incorrect Candidate Selected" is displayed. Notional counting will no longer be applicable for this district.

Description:

This does not display any districts until the 'Full Distribution of Preferences' results have been released for at least one district (with more than two candidates). When this occurs, the report will only display districts (with more than two candidates) with released 'Distribution of Preferences' results and districts with only two candidates that have been declared. Results are ordered in ascending order on district number, with the elected candidate displayed on the left-hand side of the report, including party (if applicable), votes and percentages, and the runner-up displayed on the right-hand side, including party (if applicable), votes, percentages and exhausted votes.

Distribution of Preferences	A ballot paper where the voter has indicated preferences for additional candidates by marking numbers in the squares beside the candidates in their preferred order.
ECQ	Electoral Commission of Queensland
On Election Night	Polling booths have closed and election counting begins.
ERIS	Election Results Information System – used to enter, record and report on state elections, by-elections and referenda results.
Exhausted Votes	A vote is exhausted when a ballot paper has no second or further preferences to be distributed.
Final for Election Night	This status is assigned to each district when no further results will be released on election night. The public website, tally output and media feed all display this status.
First Preference Votes	A ballot paper that has been marked with the number one (1) beside one (1) candidate only.
Formal Votes	A ballot paper which has been correctly marked according to instructions where the voter's intentions are clear and which is counted towards the outcome of the poll.
Independents	Candidates that are not affiliated with a registered party.
Informal Votes	Ballot papers without clear first preferences are regarded as Informal Votes, and are not included in candidate counts.
Notional Two Candidate Preferred (N2CP)	Where an Electoral District has more than two candidates, a Notional Two Candidate Preferred Count is then undertaken. Preferences are allocated to the two candidates selected by the Electoral Commissioner. This may assist in indicating a possible winner.

Term/Acronym	Definition
Party	There are three different types of statuses for political parties: - Registered – Parliamentary: the party has elected members in parliament. - Registered – Non Parliamentary: the party does not have elected members in parliament but has 500 active members who are electors. - Deregistered: the party has no members in parliament or 500 active members who are electors.
Polling Booth	The venue or location where voters can vote on polling day. It is supplied with voting screens and ballot boxes and is staffed by polling officials. Places where mobile polling is conducted are also official polling booths. In most cases, mobile polling booths operate in the week leading up to polling day.
Polling Day	Queensland elections are always held on a Saturday. Polling booths are open to take votes from 8am until 6pm.
Post Election Night	The period after election night where votes are finalised.
Remote Area Mobile Polling	In the Torres Strait and remote communities on the Cape York Peninsula mobile polling teams visit to take votes in areas considered too remote to justify an ordinary polling booth.
Returning Officer	An electoral officer who is appointed by the Governor-in-Council upon the recommendation of the Electoral Commissioner to be responsible for the conduct of the election for an electoral district.
Seat Type	Used to define the type of seat being contested at an electoral event. Seat types include District, Ward and Division.
State General Election	Queensland has three-year parliamentary terms, with an election announced usually towards the end of each term. There is, however, no statutory minimum period between State elections, so a government can choose to hold an election at any time within its three-year term.
Uncontested District	An uncontested district is a district with only one candidate nominated for an electoral event.
Virtual Tally Room	The virtual tally room is our online version of the Tally Room. Similar to the Tally Room, our virtual version reports on election results at the state level, per district and even by polling booth.
Ward	The term used to define areas in a local government election. These divisions are similar to districts. The Brisbane City Council has 26 wards.
